

Travel Bursary Opportunity

For Canadians seeking WETT Training

The expense of travel and/or accommodation to attend WETT training courses can be a substantial financial barrier for people who live in Canada's rural and remote regions.

We hope to make training more accessible by reducing these costs. DuraVent and Security Chimneys have agreed to provide funding to offer travel bursaries starting in 2020.

Each year, three lucky WETT training applicants will be selected to receive a $500.00 bursary. For complete details including eligibility requirements, please visit the Awards & Bursaries section of WETT's website at: <https://www.wettinc.ca/courses/bursary.cfm>

What is "WETT"?

Wood Energy Technology Transfer Inc. (WETT Inc.) is a non-profit training and education association. Through professional training and public education, WETT Inc. promotes the safe and effective use of wood-burning systems in Canada.

In carrying out its mandate to promote increased safety and effectiveness, WETT Inc. maintains the Wood Energy Technical Training program (WETT). The program is designed to:

- Provide training to those who offer wood-energy products and installation and maintenance services to the public and to those who conduct inspections of wood-burning systems,
- Confirm and recognize the knowledge and skills acquired through field experience, self-study and successful completion of WETT courses by issuing certificates of qualification,
- Provide training to specialty audiences as the need and demand arises.

The WETT system consists of several courses recognizing the various types of work done by wood-energy professionals. Certification is achieved by completing courses to earn educational credits. WETT-certified professionals must abide by a code of ethics requiring professionalism in all aspects of their work. For more information, visit: <https://www.wettinc.ca>
